DEDICATED TO FAREHAM TOWN DIVISION

PAMELA BRYANT is a lifelong resident having been born and brought up in Fareham, spending most of her working life in central Fareham. She has lived in North Ward for the over 50 years.

She offers a wealth of experience to local government having been first elected to Fareham Borough Council in 1990, has served on all major committees, and always tries to do her best for all residents.

Her late husband, Alderman John Bryant, represented Fareham Town for 16 years, so she is familiar with the excellent way HCC is managed. Pam was honoured to be Chairman's Lady when John was HCC Chairman.

The County has an impressive record of meeting high standards and is the envy of other councils. During the pandemic, officers have assisted many other authorities across the country.

Pam understands people expect her to work hard representing them, ensuring Council Tax is used prudently and to the benefit of all.

She would like to ensure Hampshire remains a beautiful place to live and work.

PETER LATHAM is highly experienced in local government as a county councillor and as former leader of Fareham Borough Council.

He has lived and worked in Fareham since 1970 where he practised as a solicitor. For 12 years, he was Deputy Coroner for Portsmouth.

He knows how local government works and is working hard to ensure that the road improvements throughout the Borough come to fruition.

He has strong Conservative principles of prudence with your money to ensure it is spent where it is most needed, which can only be done with sound and sensible financial management across all Council budgets.

He is not a party animal and believes his job is to work with all parties and officers to achieve the best he can in the interests of residents he represents.

He is married to Chris and has a daughter and two grandsons.

Peter Latham emerges for a photo from Hampshire County Council's building in Winchester, where he has spent a lot of time dealing with matters affecting Fareham.

Residents in Riverside Avenue, Wallington are grateful to Peter for responding to their objections to a plan for 5 houses at the end of a private drive. HCC recommended refusal on access grounds and the developer withdrew the application.
